

A group of hikers is walking up a grassy hill at sunset. The sky is a warm orange, and the hills in the background are silhouetted against the light. The hikers are wearing backpacks and hats, and the grass is a golden-brown color. The overall scene is peaceful and scenic.

About

The College of Agriculture and Life Sciences offers students the opportunity to study, intern, research, and volunteer abroad or virtually. The agricultural industry is more globalized than ever and recruiters are looking for employees who are able to work in diverse business environments. International programs enhance your global attitude and awareness and improve cultural competency skills.

AGLIFE EDUCATION WITHOUT BORDERS

Study

Take courses that apply to your degree with short-term or semester long programs.

Intern

Build your resume with international work experience with global agricultural businesses and organizations.

Research

Conduct research with international organizations or independently and gain hands-on experience in the world's top labs.

Service-Learning

Make an impact by volunteering with international organizations in various fields including community health, youth development, animal welfare and many more.

Getting Started

Ask your Academic Advisor

- > What classes do I have to complete on campus?
- > What core or major requirements can I complete abroad?
- > What remaining prerequisites must I fulfill, and how will an international experience impact my progress?
- > How many elective credit hours do I have remaining in my degree?
- > Are there any in-residence requirements I need to be aware of before I go abroad?
- > Does the department offer any international programs?

Ask your International Programs Coordinator

- > What types of international programs am I eligible for?
- > How will I get approved and/or credit for my international program?
- > What are the financial considerations for my international program of interest?
- > Where can I find more information about scholarships and funding for my program?

Ask your Financial Aid Advisor

- > How do loans work for international programs? What kinds of aid/loans do I currently receive, and are there any restrictions on this aid if I study abroad?
- > Have I reached the maximum of (name of) loan allowed per academic year?
- > When will funds be released for my term of participation?

Virtual

Create connections with international peers through virtual study, intern, research and service-learning international programs.
